Southeastern North Carolina Provides Convenient Healthcare Options

While southeastern North Carolina's finest beaches and the historic port city of Wilmington are just a short drive away, Brunswick Forest residents have access to the area's best medical services without leaving their resort-style community.

The Villages at Brunswick Forest is a 160-acre town center with grocery markets, restaurants, and retail shops. But what makes The Villages so conveniently unique are the numerous healthcare services available, starting with the Novant Health Brunswick Forest Medical Center. This 40,000-square-foot facility features primary care physician offices, an express care clinic open seven days a week, and complete gastroenterology, rheumatology, urology, and neurology services. Recent medical center expansions include the Novant Health Cancer Institute, with 15 infusion chairs for chemotherapy and hematology treatments and an on-site diagnostic laboratory for rapid test results. They're all part of the regional Novant Health network that includes an 800-bed hospital and the University of North Carolina medical school campus just 10 miles away.

Dr. Darshan Dave is an internal medicine specialist who sees patients at the Novant Health Brunswick Forest Medical Center. "We're pleased to offer this growing area convenient access to not only primary and express care," he says, "but also imaging, lab services, multiple specialty physicians, and other clinicians so that residents of this community have healthcare options close to home."

Novant Health also offers medical evaluations, screenings, and educational programs at the Brunswick Forest Fitness and Wellness Center. The 18,000-square-foot facility features the latest workout equipment, aerobics classes, indoor/outdoor pools, and tennis/pickleball courts, all connected to residential neighborhoods by hiking and biking trails.

Additional medical service providers located in The Villages include EmergOrtho's Brunswick Forest Surgery Center for outpatient procedures and other orthopedic treatments. Coastal Integrative Health is a full-service chiropractic center, while residents can keep their smiles in shape at Bluewave Dentistry, Cherubini Orthodontics, and Airlie Oral Surgery. Complete optometric services are available at Wilmington Eye and the Swell Vision Center. And to make sure that all family members get the care they need, the Brunswick Forest Veterinary Hospital offers a full range of pet-friendly treatment services.

"We've gotten a lot of positive feedback about the convenience of our community healthcare facilities," says Jerry Helms, President of Brunswick Forest Realty. "Along with so many healthy-lifestyle recreational amenities, we're proud to offer our residents such a diversity of high-quality medical services located here on-site at Brunswick Forest."
